[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

A Terrible Lake Disaster

GRAND HAVEN, Mich, Sept 15.—The propeller Ironsides one of the largest steamers on the Lakes foundered within [illegible] of this port at noon to-day. Her signal of distress was hoisted at [illegible] o'clock this morning, but so terrible was the sea and heavy the wind that no assistance could reach her. She was laboring in the trough of the sea from about 8:30 A M until the time she sank. The passengers and crew of which there were nineteen of the former and thirty of the latter prepared boats to leave her at about 10:30 A M and the last boat left her at 11:50 A M. When the last boat had got about a quarter of a mile from her she went down. There were five boats. One of them having five men and four women capsized, and only one man of all these reached the shore. Four boats have reached shore up to this time. The boat with Captain Sweetman and wife and five passengers has not been heard from. It is feared they are all lost. Twelve passengers are known to have been saved. Fourteen bodies have been recovered. The following is a list of those lost whose bodies have been recovered and identified: John Driscoll, steward of the boat; John Hills, of Milwaukee; Charles Winnell, agent of C E Harling & Co, New York; Mrs H A Valentine and child, Milwaukee; A J Donelson, Grand Rapids; Mrs J B L Dewitt, Milwaukee.

NEW YORK, Sept 15.—Walter Bray, while standing on the front platform of a Third Avenue car last night, struck an Italian street sweeper on the head with a car hook, because he did not get out of the way as promptly as the driver wished. The wound will probably prove fatal. Bray has been arrested.

A Singular Accident.

On the recent voyage to New York of the steamship City of Brooklyn, a woman who was a steerage passenger became insane from sickness, and threw her little boy, four years old, overboard, then, with her baby in her arms jumped into the sea. She was rescued, but the child was drowned.

Ravages of the Yellow Fever—Terrible Tales of [illegible] in Shreveport—Relief [illegible] Generosity of the W. U. T. Co.

MEMPHIS, Sept 15.—The following dispatch was received here to-night:

To the Agent of the Associated Press: The [illegible] from Shreveport represent the yellow fever as unabated, and the distress in the city indescribable. Of six men in our telegraph office, five have taken the fever and two [illegible]. The deaths average 30 to 40 daily in a population perhaps of not over 4,000. All the [illegible] and nurses are worked down. The [illegible] the country should know these [illegible] and send aid to this suffering city.

[illegible] LORD C. BAKER, Sup't.

[illegible], La., 15.—The fever is still raging and the [illegible] unfavorable. Sixty per cent of those [illegible] died. There is great suffering in all classes of society for want of proper nursing. Citizens are doing all in their power to [illegible] the disease. Interments yesterday numbered twenty two. There were [illegible] last night. The Howard Association is greatly in need of assistance. Geo. J [illegible] of the Western Union Telegraph [illegible]

WASHINGTON, Sept 15.—President Orton, of the Western Union Telegraph Company, has [illegible] the following order addressed to the [illegible] of the company throughout the country: "Instruct all managers to send [illegible] relating to relief of citizens of [illegible] and at the request of the Governor of [illegible] of Louisiana direct that contributions of money be received and transferred by telegraph without charge. By this action on the part of the telegraph company money can be forwarded instantly to sufferers, whereas by course of mail it would require some ten days to get there, by which time the need might be past relief. Any one feeling inclined to contribute to aid the stricken people of [illegible] can send without expense by [illegible] at any Western Union station. Contributions are already going forward from this point."

Failure of an Insurance Company.

The press announces the failure of the Electric Life Insurance Company with a deficiency of nearly $100,000.

Very True.

NEW YORK, Sept 15.—To-day's Tribune says editorially: Gov Stanford, President of the Central Pacific railroad seems to be a very candid man. In the contest which has just closed in California the newspaper organs of the railroad constantly asserted that railroad affairs were not in the slightest manner involved, that the only question was as to the fitness of the legislative and other candidates. Now, however, railroad magnates harangue their workmen and tell them the State election has been carried against them. This is pretty plain talk, and the people will ask how it happens that a great corporation enriched by subsidies from the National Treasury and born under an act of Congress assumes to control the election of members of a State Legislature.

Scheme for a Free Banking System

NEW YORK, Sept 16.—Washington dispatch says that a member of Congress who was a member of the Banking and Currency Committee of the last Congress states that he shall advocate a system in the next Congress which will permit unrestricted free banking conditional only upon adequate bonded security for circulation. He believes banking under some condition of adequate security should be as open to competition as any other business. Clinton L Merriam, another member of the same committee, expressed like views with the addition of the [illegible] of redemption. The member of Congress first alluded to states that the banks will [illegible] any considerable increase of National Bank circulation and a corresponding withdrawal [illegible] under such circumstances would [illegible] necessity of the redemption [illegible] as to utterly destroy the present [illegible] National Bank circulation.

An Enemy of the Common School System Concludes to Retract

NEW YORK, Sept 16.—The [illegible] says Father O'Farrell, pastor of St Peter's Church [illegible] his parish, on Sunday last, that he [illegible] to retract anything [illegible] he may have said to them during his crusade [illegible] for pupils for his new parochial school. The Times adds: The action of Father O'Farrell is said to have been the result of an intimation from authorities of the Catholic Church that the extreme measures resorted to by him are not approved. The Commissioners of Education have taken an intense interest in the affairs of the First Ward Public School, the existence of which has been threatened by the [illegible] of St. Peter's Church and they express their firm determination to uphold in that [illegible] at all hazards the system of public instruction which has been so persist[illegible]

WASHINGTON CITY.

Something about our Alaska Wards.

WASHINGTON, Sept 16.—Admiral Pennock commanding the North Pacific Squadron reports that he has had several friendly talks with the Alaska Indians. Many chiefs visited the ship. They seem to be impressed with the importance of being on good terms with the United States. There are only a few American traders at the quarters in the vicinity and no settlement except at Sitka. The Admiral visited Sitka and remained seventeen days, during three fourths of which time there was a heavy rain. The population has much decreased, and there has been a great falling off in trade. Exclusive of the garrison there are not more than three hundred inhabitants, mostly Russians and half breeds. For some years past there has been bad blood between the Sitkas and Chilcoot tribes, and when at [illegible] Harbor Admiral Pennock was solicited by a Stikeen chief to use his good offices in bringing about a reconciliation. The Admiral talked the matter over with the chief of the Chilcoots, whom he found ready to bury the hatchet.

He said that three men took him last night on the roof of the house where he was stopping and told him they would throw him off if he did not give them his money. He asked permission to go to his room and there to prevent robbery tore the money up. He is evidently about half crazed. He has considerable coin and gold dust in his possession.

INTERESTING NEWS FROM CHINA AND JAPAN.

The English steamer [illegible] which arrived in San Francisco September 10th, from Hongkong dates to August 14th and Yokohama dates to August 21st. We append the most interesting items:

CHINA

A French missionary named Sassi was mobbed by the people of [illegible] on the Kan river to the south [illegible] while endeavoring to enter the town. It is said he was advised by the [illegible] but while the attempt [illegible] surrounded by an inquisitive crowd who finally insulted and maltreated him. He was dressed in Chinese costume, but the disguise does not appear to have been perfect.

An American missionary is said to have ventured to [illegible] but he wisely refrained from entering, the gates having been warned that it would be at his peril. Certain Catholic missionaries passed through some time ago but being dressed in Chinese garb and hurrying along the street they escaped [illegible] though they were [illegible] recognized.

About 7 P M on the 15th of July, St Swithin's Day, Tientsin was visited by a hurricane which lasted over an hour during which time the roofs of the houses were carried away, windows blown in or down, trees torn up and blown away, river junks blown from their moorings and colliding with other junks and either sinking themselves or the junks they collided with. With the wind we also had very heavy rain which lasted all night. During the following night we again had a great deal of heavy rain accompanied with an east wind which amounting to a gale in force caused the weather to become cold and sent down the thermometer to [illegible] degrees.

A correspondent of the North China Daily News says: In my letter of the 16th of July I mentioned that we had just heard that His Excellency Li Hung-chang had received orders to send an expedition to Formosa to correct the aborigines and place them for the future under the laws of China in order that shipwrecked people might obtain protection and assistance instead of as at present being murdered and eaten. On the 24th ultimo I was informed on good authority which was partly corroborated by a statement I saw afterward in the Hongkong Mail that sixteen war junks armed with foreign cannon and six foreign built war steamers would arrive at Chefoo early in the autumn from Kwangtung.

In the Peking Gazette of July 1, 1873 we find a memorial from Tso Tsung-tang, Viceroy of the provinces of Shensi and Kansuh, reporting an act of atrocity committed in the district of [illegible] in Kansuh by a Manchow General named [illegible] in command of the country at [illegible] situated in the north west part of Kansuh. It appears that in the intercalary tenth moon of the ninth year of Tung-chih (October-November, 1870) General [illegible] when engaged in levying a Lekin tax, to speak in mild language to the population of [illegible], took offense at the obstinacy of the inhabitants of certain villages in delaying the payments demanded, attacked them with his troops and over 200 people were butchered. He at the time reported the affair to the throne as the subduing of a body of rebels and was duly praised for his activity, courage and good management.

A serious affair is a disturbance that has arisen in the Shaoshing district, and which has caused the authorities some anxiety. The drouth has caused the usual irritation and uneasiness among the country people and an effort to enforce registration at this inopportune time very nearly caused an outbreak.

Severe drouths exist in Kiangsu and Chekiang provinces. The Chinese have a curious story regarding a mandarin in the neighborhood of Soochow who is said to have vowed that till heaven answered the prayers of the country for rain he would neither eat nor drink. He did not wish to live to see the people starve. His devotedness, however, was unavailing, the downfall of rain was not hastened for his fasting, and he died.

Hills, forests, rice and wheat fields near the sea shore were destroyed. Three fishing junks were destroyed, but the inhabitants were not seriously damaged.

The drouth is very severely felt in many provinces though so far as we can gather the general prospects of the harvest throughout the country are not below the average.

THE CHINESE AND THE ROUTE TO CHINA

PORTLAND, Sept [illegible]

[illegible]

His first question was: What do you think of the Chinese labor problem which causes working people so much anxiety?

His prompt reply was: It will solve itself.

2 Do the Chinese learn to prefer our food and clothing, and productions so that we may ultimately expect a market in China equal to their vast population?

His reply was: When they first come over they eat eight sacks of rice to one of flour. On returning they eat eight sacks of flour to one of rice. They use more and more of our clothing.

3 Do they carry back most of their money?

No. Most of their earnings are spent for our flour and lumber [illegible] export to China, and we shall soon need more of their laborers to help raise enough flour for their market and to get lumber for their wharves, houses and railroads.

4 Which is the nearest and best route to China?

The northern route under Alaska and the Aleutian Islands for steamers both ways, and [illegible] coming from [illegible]

Upon all these points the letter below speaks for itself and gives some facts which enter into the solution of this labor problem in which our people justly feel a great interest.

Yours respectfully,
G. H. ATKINSON.

[illegible] August 11, 187[illegible]

To the Rev Geo H Atkinson, Portland:

Dear Sir: In compliance with your request and my promise I will endeavor to jot down a few of my ideas regarding our intercourse with China relating to labor, exchange of commodities, the route to be pursued to and from Japan, (gathered from data acquired in an experience of about four years in that trade.) Of course not many substantial facts can be obtained in so short a time, where one is but a transient visitor, trader and traveler, but as the Chinese question, at the present time seems to be taking precedent of all other questions (on the Pacific coast at least) perhaps a few ideas from one of even so short an experience as myself may not be deemed out of place. The first question I shall glance at, (for I can but glance at any of them as you are aware my time is very short and very much taken up with my business while here) is the labor question, as the great fear here seems to be that Chinese labor will drive nearly all other labor out of the country and that our laboring class will find little or nothing to do only at starvation prices. This fear I honestly think is without cause and I think there is no foundation to ground such a fear upon and I think, also, it arises in a great measure, from a morbid desire with many of our laboring class, to obtain more than an equivalent for their labor. In fact, I know this to be the case in some instances and I think it not an unfair inference to be drawn from conversation held at different times with many. If labor commanded such exorbitant prices as I have heard many advocate capital would most certainly be driven from the country and with no capital in the country where would labor find employment? But some will say labor is capital, granted then the more labor the more capital, so let us have all we can get. I am but a laboring man myself and I here venture the assertion without fear of contradiction that I have done more hard labor with my hands than the majority of those who are making this great cry against Chinese labor and I also here venture another assertion without fear of reasonable proof to the contrary, and that is that the Chinese that have come to this country, that those who are here now and that those who may come hereafter have created, do create and will create a demand for the commodities of this country in exchange for those of theirs that has done and will require more labor to produce and take to market in China and bring back the equivalents than the sum total of all the Chinese labor in the country past, present and future.

I know it is said by many that the Chinese do not change either in manner or living and consequently never can become great consumers of our productions. Now what are the facts? That the Chinese are proverbially slow to change I most willingly concede. But that they have changed and do change I as certainly aver having seen and noted and even conversed with my officers about it on ship board. I have conveyed about 1,800 to and from this country within the last four years and while their principal articles of diet on their first passage to this country are rice, salt fish, and salt pork with some few sauces and vegetables, on their return to their own country their principal food is flour, smoked ham, potatoes and very little rice, and those of them who have [illegible] showing plainly that they are changing in their taste, and the same remark holds good in regard to their dress. How many do we see in our streets dressed wholly or in part as our own citizens? But some will say they cast off this style of dress in going home. In most cases they do, but not in all.

But what if they do in all (which they certainly do not) [illegible] civilized world. Most certainly [illegible] Europeans and Americans [illegible] the Chinese style of dress while residing in China, especially in [illegible] during the summer months. I myself have [illegible] of their style which I wear [illegible] ship board [illegible] which I consider more comfortable during the warm months than our style.

Is it reasonable then to expect them to readopt our style of dress in their own country when they have once conceded superior comfort of their own? We cast off their style of dress when we return to our country. Should they not be allowed the same privilege without [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] cotton goods, and [illegible] to export we shall find a market in China for all we can produce. Already is she a great consumer of cotton goods and when the time arrives when she begins to build railroads, she will want all [illegible] England [illegible] their money in [illegible] of the country. [illegible] and probably to a very limited extent true, but [illegible] very few indeed who carry more than a few hundred dollars out of the country with them on their return home. They spend most of their earnings here among their own countrymen [illegible] our product and send them to China in exchange [illegible] their own country, bringing that here to supply our wants in that line, and I venture to say that the money that goes to China from [illegible] difference of population into consideration is not a tithe of that sent to Europe from the United States, and what if it were [illegible] gold and silver articles of trade and commerce? I certainly think so, and the more we exchange for the necessaries of life the cheaper these things become and the cheaper we can live. The labor question and the exchange of productions are so closely allied that they necessarily run into each other and for the present I must leave them, as I have not time to discuss them farther.

THE ROUTE TO CHINA

Regarding the route to be pursued to and from Japan I think the same route should be taken at all seasons of the year or nearly the same. On leaving Cape Flattery in a steam ship I should endeavor to make a course about W by N for about 900 miles. This would bring the ship in with the Chumagin Islands in about lat 54° 30' N and long 160° W. Thence skirt along the southern peninsula of Alaska, the Fox Islands and the Andreanoff group to the Prime Meridian (or 180° W) in lat about 51° N. This would give a distance of about 750 miles. Thence steer along the Kurile Isles about W to about 170° E long, then about W by S intercepting the 160th meridian in lat about 49° or 50° N. This would give a distance of about 770 miles. Thence steer about S W 1,280 miles to Cape [illegible] at the mouth of Yokohama Bay. The distance from Yokohama to Hongkong is about 1,[illegible] miles, making the whole distance about 5,215 miles, or about 21 days sail at 250 miles per day. This route is susceptible of being shortened about 100 miles in pleasant weather. As regards the relative force of the gales that prevail along this route during the winter months when compared with the route between New York and Liverpool I am not fully competent to say. But after sailing the first 900 miles on this route we have the land to the windward as a bulkhead, to break the sea, and consequently have smooth water nearly all the remaining distance thence to Japan, for the prevailing wind is between the north and west blowing heavy at times causing a very heavy sea at a distance from land which I have often felt as far south as 16° or 17° north latitude, a distance of 1,500 to 1,800 miles north of the parallel of 40° north latitude during the summer months. I unhesitatingly pronounce the Pacific the smoothest large body of water I ever sailed upon after an experience of more than twenty seven years as a master mariner, during which time I have sailed upon most of the seas and oceans of the globe. I have often sailed for days together with from a six to an eight knot breeze with but little perceptible motion and have often discussed the cause of the extreme quietness of these waters during smart breezes, with my chief officer. On the returning voyage after leaving Japan especially in the summer months, I think, perhaps, a route a little south of this would shorten the passage as there is a strong easterly current, in which I have been set along 20, 25 and even as much as 40 miles per day. This stream has never had its limits defined, but I have never found it north of 48° north latitude, but have found it as far south as 42° north latitude, on the Prime Meridian, and have felt its influence till within 800 or 1,000 miles of this coast. My time will not allow me to pursue this subject further at present, but will write more fully upon it at a future time.

Yours truly,
A NOYES

THE TERRITORIES.

Colorado will complete 355 miles of railroad this year.

Several fast horses are at the Walla Walla Fair which is running this week—both the Fair and the horses.

The Grange movement is progressing finely in Walla Walla valley. Up to last Saturday, four granges were organized and in full operation.

The Second Judicial District Court of Utah sets in Beaver District on the first Monday in December. Judge Boreman will improve the time fishing until the opening of court.

The Agricultural and Manufacturing Association of Deseret prepared some choice specimens of Utah fruits for display in the Pomological Exposition now being held in Philadelphia.

The City Fathers of Salt Lake, becoming displeased at the Tribune of that city, adopted a motion refusing that paper to send a reporter to the City Council. The Tribune is of course indignant as it has a right to be.

Gov. Ferry paid the U S S Saranac an official visit at Olympia last Monday. The regular salute was fired and the crew and marines drawn up in array, and everything was done appropriate to the rank of the chief visitor and to make the occasion pleasant to all.

The Denver News says the Denver and Rio Grande (narrow gauge) and the Mountain division of the Colorado Central roads have knocked the speculations of the broad gauge theorists into the air and accomplished what it was asserted could not be done. So much for theory v. practice.

A young lady at Olympia went to church last Sunday neatly attired in a very tasteful white muslin suit, but the texture was so light that the illustrations of a Day's Doings which she had used for her panier were provokingly visible, and as the prominent one was a [illegible] from the "White Fawn" the effect on those in the near vicinity can be easily imagined.

The Helena Montana Herald says that recently near [illegible] ranch on the Benton road three men in the employ of [illegible] saw a gray eagle attack a half grown antelope [illegible] the eagle off and the antelope [illegible]

[illegible]

The Walla Walla Union of last Saturday says: During the week wheat has been coming in very rapidly. At many of the warehouses the wagons stand in line and wait for their turn to unload and warehouse men are kept busy all day long receiving and unloading grain. Yet we are assured that the wheat hauling season has only just commenced to open. Some of the buyers are already talking of enlarging their room for storage.

Mr Oppenheimer, who has just reached Walla Walla from Fort Colville furnishes the Statesman with the following: On the 1st ult [illegible] Frank Gonet, who was stopping at the [illegible] mill was beaten in a horrible manner. A heavy club was found near his body with blood and hair adhering to it [illegible] it is decided that it was the weapon used. The injured man remained insensible for several days and up to the time our informant left had been unable to give an intelligible account of the assault or name the guilty party. Crops in the valley were very fine, the yield being larger than in any former season. Wheat commands [illegible] cents delivered at the mill. Peter [illegible], the English Commissioner, who has been engaged in opening roads and trails in British Columbia and in that capacity made many friends, came down with Mr Oppenheimer and is now on his way to Victoria.

OREGON

Messrs Crane & Pike are building a fine brick store at Oakland.

Mr S O J Potter has completed his survey of Sand Island and Point Adams.

Washington county hoodlums have revived the old custom of melon stealing.

The walls of the new M E Church at Oakland are up and the roof will be put on soon.

Wheat buyers for the past few days have been paying $1 08 per bushel at Forest Grove.

The Astoria Farmers Company have levied an assessment of 25 per cent on the capital stock.

Salem had an alarm of fire from their new bell last Saturday. A fire was kindled just to try the bell.

A correspondent at Oakland says the farmers are sorry that the freight tariffs on the railroad are again advanced but they can't help themselves.

A young man residing not far from Forest Grove bought a $150 horse for $60 and took him to Portland to sell. It cost him $20 to keep from going to jail.

The fall term of the Pacific University and Tualatin Academy commenced on Wednesday the 3d. There are about 40 students in the Academy and 10 in the College.

The Astorian says Mr J William Welch purchased two lots last week in Shively's addition to Astoria for $1,000. The lots are the identical ones on which the Astor Company built their fort in 1811.

On Thursday evening of last week, Deputy R P Olds organized a grange at Milton on Walla Walla river, Umatilla county, called the Milton Grange. D M Drumheller is Master, and Thos K McCoy, Secretary.

Mr I Patterson caught two dogs worrying one of Mr S G Reed's sheep near Hillsboro. The dogs don't worry any now. Mr Patterson says he thinks he did well—fifty paces with a rifle, the dogs running full speed. He knows how it is himself, having lost fifteen head some time since.

The Athenaeum, a Young Ladies' Literary Society connected with the University at Salem has elected the following officers to serve during the present term: Mary Starr, President; Sarah Cole, Vice President; Gertie Holmes, Recording Secretary; Sarah Gearier, Corresponding Secretary; Elizabeth Kinney, Treasurer.

The following officers were elected for the first quarter of the school year by the Gamma Sigma Society at the Forest Grove University: President, L. Bilyeu; Vice President, J. E. Naylor; Recording Secretary, S T Walker; Corresponding Secretary, E. Atkinson; Treasurer, H Tamora; Sergeant-at-Arms, W H. Latourette.

Mr J C Franklin, of Umatilla county, who reports the discovery of some fine hot mineral springs in that county, says they are situated at the head of Little Butter Creek, in the Blue Mountains, about fifty miles from Umatilla. So far as tried they have proven to be good medicinal springs for the cure of rheumatism and other chronic diseases.

A story reaches us from Union county which exhibits one of the "coolest" phases of human character yet. A man stole a wagon and ran away with it. He was pursued by the owner and others who overtook him and out of pity for the wretch let him go. He then turned round, followed them back and had them arrested for compounding a felony.

A certain Tom Ross finding a farmer away from home four miles east of Hillsboro, and being cold, supplied himself with blankets. Taking them two miles west he concluded he could get along and sold them to a family for money to go to St Joe. The deputy sheriff, accompanied by Mr Morrow, escorted Tom back. He is now comfortably established in the county jail to await the action of the grand jury.

The Statesman learns from parties just in from Silverton that a rather disastrous fire took place on Saturday about three miles this side of the town. A gentleman whose name our informant could not state, had set fire to some brush about his place and getting beyond control it was communicated to a rail fence surrounding his orchard by which trees, fences, some hogs and other property was burned and damaged to a considerable extent.

The Pendletonian like a meteor or perhaps a comet flashed across the journalistic firmament and by its evanescent brightness for a moment obscured all the other luminaries and then went out—leaving only black darkness to mark the track that that it has so recently illuminated. It seems to be one of nature's sternest laws that everything good, bright and beautiful must die and pass away young. So says the Walla Walla Union and which means we suppose that the Pendletonian has pegged out.

The Statesman of last Tuesday says: A sad accident occurred yesterday about noon by which it is feared a little son of Mr William Cross, aged about nine years, will lose his life. Mr Cross was hauling wheat to town and as he was passing out of his pasture with a load of 70 bushels in crossing a bridge his little son who was sitting on a sack of wheat was thrown off, falling under the wheel. The wheel passed over his arm and the back part of his head crushing his arm in a dreadful manner and slipping the entire head. Drs Carpenter and Payton were called to attend the little sufferer and they think he cannot live [illegible] he do recover it will be necessary to amputate his arm.

STATE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION

[From the Statesman of Sept 16th]

Board met yesterday as usual. The proceedings of Saturday were read. The assessment roll of Yamhill county being found so defective as to defeat the objects of this Board, it is ordered to be returned by the Clerk, with a letter explaining the existing defects to the Secretary of State. The defects in the roll book consists in that the columns are not added up, there is no tabulation of results, and the figures are irregular and obscure.

The Board were employed in examining assessment rolls, and determining their [illegible] the rest.

Agricultural land was assessed last year at $4 53 per acre, this year at $7 16, per acre. Town property was assessed $1,328,450, this year $1,220,[illegible], a reduction of $108,122. The number of acres returned last year was 338,976, this year 338,620.

ACT CONSCIENTIOUSLY AND YOU WILL ACT WISELY

Let it not be supposed that the course of those Republicans who have opposed the resolution endorsing the character of Senator Mitchell is dictated by any personal feeling against the Senator. Such a supposition would be injustice both to him and them to him because it would imply that his course of life had been such as to make personal enemies of a large majority of the Republicans of the State, to them because it would imply that a mere personal feeling would control their actions upon matters vitally affecting the welfare of the party and the honor of the State. The character of many of those persons who at the Convention and at their homes since its adjournment have denounced this resolution as fatal to the Republican party is a sufficient guaranty that no merely personal feeling enters into their opposition. Indeed many of them probably a majority, have been personal friends of the Senator, and their feelings toward him to day are those of sorrow rather than animosity.

Nor is it the fact that the Convention exceeded the limits of its authority whenever it attempted to bind the party by an expression of approval of the private character of any man that constitutes the chief ground of dissatisfaction. When Republicans are called upon to vote for the candidate nominated by the Convention, they are called upon to express their approval of the sentiments contained in the resolutions adopted by the Convention. True, the Convention exceeded its authority, and every Republican is at liberty to repudiate the unauthorized [illegible], but every Republican who votes for the candidate, by that act ratifies the [illegible] of the delegates in passing the resolution in question, and makes it as much his own act as if it had been within the [illegible] of the authority of the delegates [illegible] the first. If the Convention had at[illegible] to commit the party to an ex[illegible] of approbation of the character [illegible] life had not been of the [illegible] kind that Mr Mitchell's has [illegible], in other words, the Convention had [illegible] up the character of some public [illegible] who has been above reproach, and [illegible] that character by resolution, [illegible] that could be said, would be that [illegible] Convention had done an unusual, un[illegible] and foolish thing. No true [illegible], in such case, would feel [illegible] bound by a sense of duty to [illegible]hold his support from the nominee, [illegible] when the Convention, exceeding [illegible] authority, attempts to commit [illegible] and every member of it, [illegible] of a course of life so at [illegible] with all the principles that un[illegible] our Christian civilization, that no [illegible] moral standing will [illegible] a justification of it, it be[illegible] question for every Repub[illegible] to answer upon his conscience, [illegible] or not he will make himself a [illegible] to the unauthorized endorsement [illegible] at the popular election.

[illegible] precisely the situation in which [illegible] of Oregon find them[illegible] day. How to meet it is a prob[illegible] of solution. Were there [illegible] in the field, the princi[illegible] party were equally sound [illegible] with those of the Republican [illegible] all legitimate political ques[illegible], the path of duty would be plain [illegible] is not the case. We are called [illegible] to decide between a man who is the [illegible] of a party founded upon politi[illegible] and one who represents a [illegible] of sound political principles but [illegible] also, sentiments that cannot [illegible] otherwise than as grossly [illegible]. Let every Republican decide [illegible] conscience as a man and after [illegible]ly considering what importance is [illegible] attached to the purely political issues [illegible] before the country, how he ought to [illegible] his vote. Fear not to trust the guid[illegible] of an honest sense of right and [illegible]. Yield to no views of policy that [illegible] violence to the idea of the conscien[illegible] performance of a citizen's duty. Do [illegible], and rest assured the result will [illegible] you have acted wisely.

COME TO THE CENTER GENTLEMEN

The Bulletin has come to the conclusion [illegible] the way to elect the candidate on the Hipple platform is to show that the editor of the Oregonian has been guilty of [illegible] dealing. Waiving all questions as to the relevancy of the question, in a [illegible] in which our character is not directly or indirectly involved we accept the [illegible] tendered. The Bulletin publishes a letter sent to us in regard to a business transaction in which we were accused by a fellow attorney, while engaged in the practice of the law, of deceiving him and obtaining advantage of him by fraud. The Bulletin has referred to this before. The charge is wholly and unequivocally false and the writer of the letter within less than twenty four hours after its date acknowledged to us that he had been misled and had suspected us without ground and to make reparation as far as possible for the wrong he took the pains to say to different persons, when the Bulletin referred to this matter a few months ago that he had done us injustice and that in our dealings with him our conduct had been honest and honorable.

In this and in all other matters affecting our personal character either for business honesty or social morality we invite all the world and the rest of mankind to a thorough investigation of the matter [illegible] Bulletin seems to think [illegible]. We have always held and we still insist that the only true basis for public virtue is private virtue and that the private life of any man who occupies a public station is a proper subject of public comment [illegible] accept the proposition that the editor of a public journal is so far a public man as not to be exempt from the rule we lay down for public officers. So gentlemen waltz in, make your charges and specifications, and if you do not fail when you come to the proof we and not you will have to suffer the consequences. We shall plead no "youthful indiscretion" "perturbation of mind" nor statute of limitations. You [illegible] a fair field and are welcome to all you can prove.

But let not [illegible] allow yourselves [illegible] the real matter at issue. The question just now is shall the Republican party be sacrificed to the desire of Senator Mitchell to secure power and patronage and the desire of his ring to [illegible]. We are going to fight the battle for the Republicans and with the Republicans against all opposition and we have an unfaltering confidence that the honest sentiment of the [illegible] with us and that [illegible].

COUNCILMAN STORY AND HIS [illegible]

Confronted by the record of the Common Council the Bulletin acknowledges that its statement of the number present when the Council passed the resolution giving the city printing to the Oregonian was untrue. But it repeats its reckless falsehood that Councilman Story was a stockholder and director of the Oregonian Publishing Company; and to prove the reckless assertion it calls attention to the fact that Mr Story was one of the corporators when the company was incorporated. Not another iota of evidence has the Bulletin upon which to base an attack upon the personal character of a man who enjoys the confidence and esteem of the public so thoroughly as does Mr Story. A corporator and a director are entirely different. The functions of the corporator cease where those of the director begin. The corporator is not a director and has nothing to do with the company after it is organized unless he chooses to subscribe stock. Councilman Story never was a director in the Oregonian Publishing Company and is not a stockholder therein and the Bulletin's attack upon him simply shows how far that paper will go to gratify the personal and private spleen of its editor.

Within the next two months nine elections are to be held as follows: Ohio, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Pennsylvania on the second Tuesday in October, Oregon on the second Monday, and California on the second Wednesday in the same month. Texas on the first Monday and Massachusetts on the first Tuesday in November. In several of these States party conditions are greatly changed. In Ohio there are three parties already in the field. The Republican, the Democratic, and the People's Party. In Iowa the Grangers are reputed to be very strong and gaining every day while the Democratic State Central Committee have issued an address advising all Democrats to support the Grangers ticket. This leaves the contest virtually between the Republican party and the Grangers. In Minnesota, Ignatius Donnelly the Congressman who first conceived the idea of sleeping in hay mows and wearing timothy seed in the hair for political effect, has captured the Grangers and it is understood that they will support the Democratic ticket. In Pennsylvania, Texas and Massachusetts there are but two parties. The Wisconsin Grangers have united with the Republican party and the struggle is between the old organizations. In California, it is proposed to continue in the Judicial election the organization (if it may be called an organization) which administered such a salutary flogging to the Central Pacific Railroad Company in the election just past.

This is the way an old 49er rebuked insolence in a railway official as told by a California paper: "On the arrival of the 3 P M train from the East on its way to San Francisco a man with a pair of blankets on his shoulders, and having all the peculiar marks and characteristics of a miner and an old forty niner attempted to enter the first-class passenger car but was rudely repulsed by the conductor who for a moment forgot how much the state and country owed to the brave and adventurous pioneers who at such great sacrifices prospected the dry hills and deep gulches of California. The miner in his rough and manly way attempted to explain and declared that he had a first-class ticket and had a perfect right to ride in a first-class car the same as other passengers. The conductor however paid no regard to his explanation stood on his official dignity and not only refused the pioneer admission to the car but suddenly pushed him off the platform. The miner had not been accustomed to such compliments as this considered it rather beyond his constitutional endurance and proceeded at once to put such a figure head on the conductor that he finally concluded he had woke up the wrong passenger. The other passengers and bystanders who had not been shocked at all by being in his company rendered a unanimous verdict that the old pioneer had served him right."

When the resolution denouncing the back pay grab was introduced in the Massachusetts Republican State Convention Gen Butler, seeing that it was likely to cause a bitter feud in the party counseled his friends to vote for it even though it denounced himself and blighted hopes he had cherished for years and which were then near fruition. Here was such a sacrifice of self [illegible] with in American politics.

When the resolution endorsing [illegible] was before the Albany Convention the other day grave [illegible] men were seen pleading with the influential holders of proxies to withhold the vote that might sound the death knell of the Republican party. Hipple himself was there in the evening before the passage of the [illegible] resolution pleading, threatening, entreating and intimidating his squad [illegible]

OUR SALEM LETTER

THE CONVENTION

The Convention which struck Hipple glorified and the party ruined [illegible] substantial Republican say yesterday as a few were talking the matter over. There was no rejoicing at all in the city when the delegates to the State Convention returned but instead a considerable English swearing. The Hippleites say they have won a brilliant victory but the honest and moral portion claim that the Baker resolution is disastrous and so it will prove on the 13th of October so far as the Republican ticket is concerned. For Mr Smith has no more chance of being elected than he has of going to Heaven probably not as much. A great many Republicans say that they will

STAY AWAY FROM THE POLLS

And let the election go by default. The truth is Mr Mitchell does not wish a Republican to be elected. As he is the only Republican Senator from Oregon he will have all the say who shall fill the different Federal offices in this State and, of course he will have only those who will give him and admire his accomplishments as a polygamist. He would rather rule over the wreck of a noble party than serve in the one that has elevated him to the high office that he in his disgrace fills and causes all good men to look away in shame. I am credibly informed that he said in Portland only a few days before the Convention that he didn't care a d—n if any one was elected if the Convention would sustain him. The Convention did but the people will not and forty five men with sixty seven votes that composed the majority of that body will find out that they do not rule the people, and the minority will be found to have had the best judgment on the subject. At the time that ex Governor Gibbs defeated Mr Mitchell in the Republican caucus for U S Senator, he instructed his particular political friends to support Mr Gibbs until their votes would elect him and then to vote for some one else and thereby defeat the party nominee. He is now doing the same trick to defeat the party. One of his admirers said Mitchell now can go to Washington and show that resolution and say that it was adopted by a vote of 67 to 30, a complete victory. That may be so but if Mr Nesmith is elected by a majority of 1 200 (and he assuredly will) will not that have its effect to show the Administration that the victory was disastrous? The Administration cannot certainly think much of such an endorsement. The truth is, that the Republican party is now led by such a corrupt crew of harpies, that a change will have to be made and a

A NEW PARTY ORGANIZED OR THE OLD ONE RENOVATED

For several years the party has been manipulated by third rate lawyers professional politicians and broken down Indian agents, and hangers-on who have no fixed residences and care nothing about the wishes of the people and these third rate lawyers obtain positions from County Sheriffs etc up to U S Senators by both fair and foul means until the condition of things has become unbearable and the people the farmers and mechanics are now awaking from their lethargy and a political revolution will be enacted next June at the State election. The attempt to galvanize the Hipple political corpse into life by that resolution will be a great lever in the cause of reconstruction. One gentleman sarcastically suggests that the Governor call an extra session of the Legislature and allow them to enact the Mormon Code and thus finish up the ridiculous farce enacted at Albany.

Well there is no use to cry over spilled milk and the best and most consistent course for true Republicans to do is not to go to the polls but let Mr Nesmith's election go by default and thus maintain our record as Republicans rebuke Hipple and his [illegible] convention and allow a man to go to Congress who is not a Holladay scavenger. 47

That revelations should be made as to the private and domestic or social life of the men who are now so busily employed in their attempts to blacken the reputation of others in that respect—where would the Oregonian man and his close friends be? And wouldn't there be revelations?"—Bulletin.

Well you are welcome so far as we are concerned to start in. If we have lived an impure or dishonorable life we ought not to ask exemption from exposure. What we demand of others we do not ourselves wish to avoid. So go on with your revelations and we shall see how you come out when the proof is called for.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, SEPT 17, 1873

CITY.

THE BARK WINDERMERE.—This bark, under command of Captain Yeaton, arrived in port early on Tuesday morning in tow of the tug Merrimac. The Windermere sailed from Liverpool several months ago bound for Victoria via the Sandwich Islands. Her cargo consisted of [illegible] salt, liquors, etc. At Honolulu about half the cargo was discharged, when the bark sailed for Victoria. She arrived at that port several weeks since and after discharging a small portion of the remaining cargo the bark sailed for Portland. From the time the Windermere sailed from Liverpool until the mouth of the Columbia river was reached the vessel encountered mixed weather. No very rough gales were encountered throughout the passage, except when off Cape Horn. In that latitude very heavy gales and a chopped sea were experienced. For nearly six weeks the vessel baffled with the wind and waves and made during that time no perceptible headway. Good health was enjoyed by both crew and officers during the protracted voyage. The vessel also stood the severe handling without the slightest damage and the cargo came from the hold in the best possible condition. Comparatively the Windermere is a new vessel having been built in the year 1870 at St Andrews, New Brunswick. She is 175 feet long over all and can carry with ease and safety about 1,300 tons. On Wednesday a force of men will begin to discharge her cargo. The bark is under charter to E. E. Morgan's Sons to carry to Liverpool a load of grain and will have quick dispatch to that port.

AMPUTATED.—The bruised and mangled condition of the left leg of Capt. Daniel Wright who fell from a pile driver last Sunday, induced the attending surgeon, Dr. A. Kinney to believe that it would be absolutely necessary to amputate it in order to prevent mortification and save the life of the patient. Accordingly, it was determined yesterday afternoon to perform the operation. The operation was performed by Dr Kinney, assisted by Drs. Chapman, Watkins and Cardwell. It began at 5 o'clock last evening and lasted about 30 minutes. The limb was amputated at the left knee in a very skillful, rapid manner. The patient was placed under the influence of chloroform during the painful operation. Dr Kinney found the bones of the left leg below the knee broken into many pieces, and all the bones of the foot crushed into fragments. So great had been the shock from the fall, that small pieces of the bones were driven through the muscles of the calf and protruded from the skin. The shattered pieces of the bone had mangled the flesh so badly, that mortification was inevitable unless the limb was removed. The right leg below the knee is also badly broken, but the bones have been worked back into their proper place, and doubtless the limb can be saved. Late on Tuesday night, the patient had regained his consciousness and was rallying from the operation. Indications were rather hopeful, but the chances of recovery are exceedingly [illegible].

FINE FABRIC.—About forty yards of fine [illegible] goods were received yesterday by Jacobs Bros & Co., agents in this city for the Oregon City Woolen Mills. This is the first goods of that grade which have been manufactured by the new mill since it was rebuilt. We feel warranted in the assertion that no [illegible] mills in the State can turn out as fine fabrics of the class mentioned, as are now on exhibition at the store of Mr. Jacobs, at the corner of Front and Oak streets. Such fabrics cannot be surpassed in this or any other State, and will maintain a standard in the markets [illegible] second to none. There appears to be no serious obstacle in the way of manufacturing such [illegible] fabrics in Oregon. Mr. [illegible] has procured at great expense, the [illegible] and complicated machinery in the East. Fine grades of wool are raised here, and skillful operatives are brought from the [illegible] of the East to work the machinery, and the result is that fabrics are thrown on the markets inferior to none manufactured in the Atlantic States. From this [illegible], the mills will be turning out large quantities of [illegible]. On the outgoing steamer the first shipment of these fabrics—since the mills have resumed—will be made to the [illegible]—San Francisco, Brown Bros & Co., to [illegible] by [illegible] in [illegible]ments.

[illegible] KINE.—Last Friday night several [illegible] disposed cows took advantage of the darkness, and entered the enclosed [illegible] used by Mr. Pfunder as a floral park. [illegible] of keen appetites, these voracious kine waded into the most succulent as well as choice of Mr. Pfunder's stock of flowers. Before being discovered, about $100 worth of rare, valuable plants were destroyed. The proprietor of the park is wholly at a loss to determine how these cows opened the gates. At each of the four corners is a gate, but they are hung on strong hinges and securely fastened. None of the gates were broken or damaged, and it would not be a violent supposition to conclude that they were purposely opened. Several gentlemen who reside in the southern part of the city, complain frequently that cows during the night, open gates which are strongly latched, and enter yards with impunity. One gentleman in particular, had a number of choice flowers eaten up by these predatory kine. The chagrin of the gentleman may be imagined when he arose the following morning and discovered the ruthless havoc committed. Where is the pound keeper? is the leading conundrum in that part of the city.

BALL AND CONCERT.—The propriety of giving a grand instrumental concert, to be followed by a ball, has been agitated for some weeks by the members of the Portland Hibernian Benevolent Society. At length a definite conclusion has been arrived at, and an entertainment of the character above indicated, determined upon. Some days ago a meeting was held by the Society and arrangements partially effected. The time has been determined upon by the Board of Managers—the evening of the 2d of October. This evening a special meeting of the Society will be held to appoint the respective committees, and conclude all preliminaries.

A COMBAT.—Just as the steamer Carrie was leaving the wharf yesterday afternoon, for Vancouver, two soldiers who it would appear had a quarrel on the wharf before getting on the steamer engaged in a fight. Two or three blows were exchanged when the combatants clinched. One was tripped and fell on the cabin floor. The noise attracted the attention of those on board who crowded around and separated the belligerents. It was a bloodless combat, neither party drawing "claret," and no enduring traces of the unpleasantness were left in the shape of ornamented frontispiece black eye etc.

WAITING FOR WATER.—Both the barks Wetterhorn and Privateer are lying at the east side wharf. Neither have entirely completed their cargoes of grain. The stage of water is so low that these vessels will not attempt to reach the Columbia until the dredger deepens the channel at the mouth of the Wallamet. The dredger is removing the sand at that point as rapidly as its capacity will admit. On Wednesday or Thursday these vessels will proceed down the river.

CONVALESCENT.—No new cases of smallpox have been developed for the past fortnight, the up-country exchanges to the contrary notwithstanding, and there are good grounds for hope that the contagion is once more under complete control. Miss Kittie Baxter and Chris Williams are the last persons who contracted the disease. Both of them are [illegible]. They will be out again in the course of a week or more.

COURSE OF LECTURES.—Mrs. [illegible] will commence a course of lectures at the Court House in this city [illegible] next Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Her subject will be Spiritualism. The lectures will be free. Tests may be expected at the close of each lecture.

EARLY CLOSING.—A number of retail merchants on First and Front streets have signed an agreement to close each evening except Saturday at 8 o'clock, the movement going into effect this evening. The idea is a good one, as it relieves the clerks who work long hours.

Corwin's Smallpox Remedy is doing all that is claimed for it, as is shown by the testimony of a number of the most reliable citizens of [illegible]

LAID OVER.—The new schedule time on the Portland Astoria route took effect yesterday, and consequently the steamer [illegible] which under the former regime would have gone down the river laid over one day. Hereafter until further notice the [illegible] will continue on the regular route leaving Portland for Astoria on Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning.

SCANDINAVIAN SOCIETY.—At a meeting of the Scandinavian Society held last night the following officers were elected for one year: M. Osvold, President; D. [illegible], Vice President; Alfred Andersen, Recording Secretary; J. Sorensen, Permanent Secretary; [illegible] Henrichsen, Treasurer; and [illegible] Committee, Fred Wilson, [illegible] Thorkelsen and [illegible] Pearson.

FITTED UP.—The little craft [illegible] which was built months ago at Westport, is now being fitted up at Astoria as a schooner. Originally the [illegible] was intended for a steam tug to be used on the lower river. However the owners, Messrs Howe & Stevens, have abandoned that idea and propose to make a sailing vessel out of her.

STILL ALIVE.—At last accounts the Chinaman who was stabbed at a gambling den on Monday night is still alive. His injuries are not necessarily of a fatal character, and his recovery is not improbable. The Celestial who made the assault with the knife has not been visible to the naked eye since the occurrence.

COTTONWOOD STAVES.—Yesterday morning the little steamer [illegible] came from down the river having on board a large quantity of cottonwood staves from the large barrel factory at St Helens. These staves were placed on board the bark Rival and will be shipped to San Francisco.

NEW WIRE.—Yesterday the old wire which has been used for a long time at the Stark street ferry was replaced by a new cable that was lately brought up from San Francisco. This new cable is 1,700 feet long, and from its appearance, ought to subserve the purposes intended for a long time to come.

MORE COIN.—One hundred and nineteen thousand five hundred dollars was brought to this city by Wells Fargo & Co. on the steamer, making a total of $289,500 received per the Oriflamme and John L. Stephens through the express company. The good times are coming certainly.

POLES.—Several men were engaged yesterday in trimming and shaping a number of poles that are to be used in carrying the telegraphic wire to the brick building at the corner of A and First streets which is soon to be occupied by the Western Union Telegraph Company.

LATE DISTRIBUTION.—So many mails arriving between four and six P. M. delays the distribution until a late hour. There ought to be a remedy for the delay.

MILITARY NOTES.

Lieut. L. V. Cazarc is still on duty in North Carolina.

Col. Rufus Saxton, formerly Chief Quartermaster of this Military Department, is occupying a similar position at Detroit for the Department of the Lakes.

Lieut. H. R. Anderson, who was recently promoted, is doing duty at Fort Klamath. He will soon be transferred to some point in California to join the battery to which he has been assigned.

In pursuance to instructions, a special order will soon be issued by General Davis, commander of this Department, in relation to the execution of the Modoc prisoners, now under sentence of death. A general order having been issued by the War Department, at the time the findings of the Court-Martial were approved, to the effect that the decision of the Court be carried into execution, and the date fixed, the special order will simply state that the prisoners are to be executed on Friday, the 3d of October at Fort Klamath between the hours of 10 A. M. and 2 P. M., in accordance with the provisions of the general order. The execution will take place under the control and management of Gen. Wheaton, who is authorized by the general order to cause to be carried into effect the plan of procedure to be observed and all the minor details of the execution. By order of Gen. Davis, a few soldiers will be detailed to proceed to Fort Klamath to carry the special order and to deliver the same to Gen. Wheaton.

PERSONAL.

James Alvinza Hayward, son of the great California capitalist, Alvinza Hayward, died in San Francisco on the 11th inst., in the 28th year of his age. The handsome steamer Emma Hayward was named in honor of the mother of this young man.

Capt. J. C. Ainsworth and Col. Rice of the Northern Pacific Railroad, are now in Philadelphia. Both these gentlemen are directors, and attended the recent meeting held in that city at which Tacoma was officially declared to be the terminus of the main line.

Dr. W. D. Baker, U. S. A., a young and well known physician of this city who formerly practiced here, returned a few days ago from Fort Harney, where he has been stationed for the last fifteen months. He has been ordered to report for duty at Fort Colville and will soon be on his way thither.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Thermometer down again.

Hibernian Benevolent Society will meet this evening.

Ice Works will be in operation on Saturday should no accident occur.

The two large safes formerly used in the First National Bank, have been moved to Corbett, Failing & Co's.

Seventy five fire shirts have been ordered of Fishel & Roberts for the Multnomah Engine Company. They propose going to the Fair well fixed.

The [illegible] brought down a load of wheat yesterday; in fact, every means of transportation is brought into service for the purpose of bringing wheat to market.

Young Marcus Mayer yesterday showed his cuteness in the shape of a patent box opener. By a quick movement nails are extracted [illegible] perfect as before they were driven into the [illegible].

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Per bark [illegible]. Messrs. Corbitt & Macleay have received an enormous quantity of salt which they are offering at importers' rates. This is a splendid opportunity for dealers to purchase [illegible] of salt. Send in your orders.

SPLENDID PROPERTY.—Mr. Richardson advertises the sale of lots [illegible] and [illegible] block [illegible] on next Wednesday at noon. A splendid bargain will be offered on that occasion and we would advise persons who desire to secure a most valuable piece of property not to fail and attend. A large commodious house stands on the ground. Altogether considered it is one of the most desirable pieces of property in Portland.

GENERAL NOTES.

The woman question was a subject of conversation in the days of Adam.

Of the stores now in course of erection in Boston's burnt district the greatest or [illegible] [illegible] according to [illegible].

[illegible] night. A real warm couple stood in the [illegible] "Their lips [illegible] and there was a sound like a cow [illegible] her hoof out of the mud."

A couple of Titusville lawyers enter into a solemn compact not to drink, but [illegible] except when out duck shooting [illegible]. At the end of a week one of them bought a duck which he keeps in his back yard and shoots at every time he is thirsty. His fellow contestant has just bought a duck too.

The Springfield Union thinks that one of the most amusing sights is that of a pretty and elegantly dressed young lady standing in a mud puddle in the rear of a street car from which she has just alighted, and calling frantically to her poodle to come back. You awful thing, and let that horrid [illegible] alone [illegible] the driver to wait till she can get her darling dog.

In a paper on "Teetotalism Considered as a Cure of National Degeneration," Matthew Browne invites the attention of pathologists, psychologists, reformers and legislators to this great question. "While we have been turning our eyes," he says, "upon the more obvious and vulgar evils attendant upon the free use of alcohol, we have been overlooking the insidious action of a bland and peaceful liquid which has been sapping the foundations of manhood and honesty. Alcohol sends a few to the jail or to the madhouse, but tea [illegible] through the nervous system up into the conscience and turns us into a nation of sneaks."

FRENCH LAW FOR AMERICANS.—A curious case was tried here recently and terminated in a decision which will no doubt rather surprise the American press. The facts of the case are as follows: In the year 1868 Miss Perriman, a young American lady of wealth, fortune and intelligence, married M. de Brimont, a nobleman of the Champagne country and a gentleman well known in fashionable life. A year after the marriage Madame de Brimont died, leaving a daughter. M. de Brimont, who had no fortune when he married, and whose tastes were most extravagant, soon became aware of the painful fact that Mr. Perriman had no intention of supporting him in idleness. M. de Brimont brought an action against his father-in-law, and in accordance with French law Mr. Perriman was condemned to make him an allowance of 18,000f a year or 12,000f for his daughter and 6,000f for himself. Mr. Perriman being an irritable and obstinate gentleman disposed of his house and furniture here and returned to New York to avoid paying. M. de Brimont pursued his relative across the Atlantic and attacked him in the American courts, getting considerably the worse of the action. In fact the tribunal of New York not only refused to confirm the judgment of the French court, but it censured the conduct of the plaintiff very severely. The New York Herald and other papers also condemned the conduct of M. de Brimont in the language of the country, and one of the articles was copied into the American Register published here. For this offense the editor of the Register was sentenced to one month's imprisonment, a fine of 1,000f, and 30,000f damages. On appeal this sentence was reduced to a fine of 1,000f and 5,000f damages. M. de Brimont having heard that Mr. James Gordon Bennett had just taken an apartment in Paris attacked that gentleman also, and the editor of the New York Herald was condemned to the same fine as Mr. Kremer, and 6,000f damages. It is said that the proceedings were highly interesting, but no account of them has been published in the papers, which are forbidden by law to report press trials. Newspapers are generally prosecuted for abuse of the government or libel, and if the proceedings in court were published, every journal in France would be at liberty to reproduce the actionable article.—Paris letter to the Pall Mall Gazette.

COLEMAN'S EUCALYPTUS

Dr. J. S. Coleman's Compound Extract of Eucalyptus is a preparation combining all the valuable medical qualities of the Eucalyptus which is cultivated in nearly every California garden for its medical utility, having become the household remedy for all diseases of the KIDNEYS, BLADDER and URINARY ORGANS, and SEMINAL WEAKNESS. It seems to have a direct affinity for the GENITO-URINARY ORGANS and their surroundings and cures them by its alterative healing and [illegible] properties [illegible] than any other known remedy.

It is an invaluable remedy for all diseases of the mucous and serous membranes, such as BRONCHITIS, HACKING COUGH, NAUSEA DURING PREGNANCY, DYSPEPSIA, LEUCORRHŒA, etc.

This preparation is the result of Dr. Coleman's experiments with the medicinal properties of the tree in the U. S. Marine Hospital in San Francisco in 1871 and 1872, where he had unusual facilities for testing the various methods of preparing the remedy and its uses. It can be relied upon as certain to give the best results and hundreds of testimonials of its efficacy can be seen at his office 405 Kearney street, San Francisco.

COLEMAN'S DOUBLE EXTRACT OF EUCALYPTUS is a powerful yet harmless febrifuge, and is a special preparation for the treatment of the malarious fevers of our interior valleys, and is warranted to cure any case of FEVER AND AGUE treated with it according to directions, while the baneful results of the usual Quinine and Arsenical remedies of those diseases are entirely avoided.

FOR PHYSICIANS, Coleman's Fluid Extract of Eucalyptus in 1 lb bottles.

EUCALYPTUS. Beware of Imitations and take none but COLEMAN'S. For sale everywhere and by HODGE, CALEF & CO., Wholesale Druggists, Portland, sole Agents for Oregon.

ROBERT L. HICKMAN, "BEAU" HICKMAN

A dispatch from Washington announces the demise of this once noted character. After dissipating a competency he became an adventurer of the "Dazzle" order, modified by aspirations to be considered a kind of Brummel. His history is given in a Washington journal briefly thus.

Robert L. Hickman was born in King William county, Va, according to best data over sixty years ago. He was one of a family of six children, three boys and three girls, two of the latter having married Gen. Eaton of North Carolina. It is said that on the death of his father he was the possessor of about $40,000 in cash. At that time a young man of good appearance, tasteful in dress, extravagant in habits, and fond of life, he made up his mind to see a good time, and he saw it so well that within a couple of years he was a bankrupt. The story further goes that in his distress he applied for aid to his brother-in-law, and that gentleman, disgusted with the actions of his relative, sternly refused all aid, but finally concluded to give him a check for $10,000, on condition that he would leave and never return to his house again. Beau accepted the proposition, took the money, returned to his old haunts, and, casting aside his valuable but bitter experience, was soon again reduced to want; a condition, it is said, which was hastened by the elopement of a colored mistress, who took with her considerable of his funds. Then Beau concluded that the world owed him a living. Too proud to work, too honest to steal, he adopted his vagabond, Bohemian life and, levying a tax on all who came in contact with him, made it pay.

Among the anecdotes related of him are the following, as to how he rode free on a railroad. He took a common card, stuck it in the band of his high hat, and getting an inside seat, stuck his head out of the window. Along [illegible] the conductor for his tickets, and, noticing the gentleman seated apparently in a deep study, he tapped him on the shoulder. Beau started up suddenly, and off went his hat. Then he [illegible] indignant, wanted the train [illegible] whether or no, and insisted so vehemently in his rights that the poor conductor [illegible], and rather than lose time he agreed to pay for the hat and pass the gentleman over, of which he did. The story soon got out, and B[illegible] was a dead-head with that conductor as long as he remained on the line.

His advice to strangers about going into [illegible] was also good. "You want [illegible] 'faro'?" he would say. "well, now let me give you a little advice, and I know all [illegible] it. You go in, and if there are many [illegible] and big ones, you get in and play [illegible]. The dealer will be mad as [illegible] when he [illegible], but you need not mind. He's bound to let you win and go for the big ones. Then, when you get a stake, don't be too greedy, but [illegible]." For this good advice he would always [illegible] "You owe me about a 'red chip'." In [illegible] for money he would always call for [illegible] as follows. A white chip $1; [illegible], and a blue chip, $20—the several [illegible] varied according to his estimate [illegible] of the giver. When he "struck" [illegible] for a blue, if he didn't respond, Beau [illegible] with his dignity to fall [illegible] to the [illegible], which he then accepted with thanks.—N. Y. Times.

BENJAMIN'S BIG FEE.

SIX MILLION DOLLARS FOR RECOVERING A FRENCH INHERITANCE.

A dispatch was published a few days ago announcing that through the instrumentality of the Hon. J. P. Benjamin, two ladies in Georgia had recovered an inheritance in France valued at $12,000,000.

The Atlanta (Ga.) Herald publishes the [illegible] details

From positive authority it is ascertained that Mrs Virginia M. Campbell and her niece Mrs [illegible] Chambers, both of Madison, Ga., are entitled to $12,000,000 now waiting in France to be claimed by the fortunate ladies.

Mrs. Campbell is a widow about seventy years of age; her niece, Mrs Chambers is also a widow aged about thirty-six. The vast property which they have inherited belongs to the Rennauleau estate. Information in regard to it was received by them about three months since, and by the advice of a gentleman in [illegible], who says that he was once a law partner of the Hon Judah P. Benjamin they at once wrote to the latter in London, asking him what course to pursue in the matter. Mr Benjamin, after thoroughly investigating the [illegible], wrote to Mrs. Campbell and Mrs Chambers that there was not a question of doubt in regard to their claim, and advised them to come to Europe at once. The property descends to these ladies through a Mrs Rennauleau, grandmother of Mrs Chambers. Mrs Campbell's maiden name was Maguire, her mother having been Mdlle Rennauleau. They are connected with one of the best families in France.

By the terms of an agreement between Mr Benjamin and the two ladies the former will take one-half of the whole amount of the estate, and the other half, $6,000,000, will then fall to Mrs Campbell and Mrs Chambers the share of each being the neat little sum of $3,000,000. Seven millions and a half are in the hands of the bank of France, and $4,500,000 in the hands of the Rothschilds. Mrs Chambers was in Augusta on the 10th, making arrangements for the voyage of herself and aunt to Europe. They will be accompanied by a lawyer from Savannah and Mr Antoine Poquet, of Augusta, who goes for the purpose of identifying them. They will also carry papers signed by the oldest citizens of Augusta proving their identity. They will leave for Europe we understand, next Tuesday.

THE CHICAGO POSTOFFICE CAT.—The historical Chicago postoffice cat is no more the vigilant, faithful, and fire proof one having departed this life on the 29th of July last. The Postal Record of Chicago publishes her obituary thus Tabitha experienced a fiery ordeal like that of Meshac, Shadrac, and Abednego, in the great conflagration on the 9th of October 1871 and was found post ignem safe and sound in a bucket in the basement. Mrs. Tabitha's progeny on leaving the maternal mansion have become domiciled with the best society in this and other great cities of the Union. Young Master Tom Cat has never yet left his native home but remains a faithful sentinel on the watch tower to defend it against the depredations of its destructive enemies the rats and mice. The others are located in the following families who were fortunate enough to secure one [illegible], viz J. S. Ellwell, Esq, Charles Walsh, Esq, Mr Harlow of the St Louis Postoffice, Mrs Lydia Cook, Mrs Lizzie M Mitchell, Mrs H [illegible], Miss Hattie Farrar, Col Thomas F [illegible], and Hon P A Hoyne. There has one gone to each of the following Postoffices viz Washington, New York, Boston, St Louis and San Francisco, and quite a number are strayed, lost, or stolen or perhaps eloped.

A Cincinnati man on his dying bed, remembered that his wife was smoking some hams, and he said, "Now, Henrietta, don't go snuffling around and forget them hams."

Wheat in Liverpool. Average California [illegible]

There is no [illegible] development in the money market worthy of [illegible] note. The [illegible] of this place from outside points [illegible]. Wheat is very large, and its circulation will [illegible] a comparatively easy [illegible] for [illegible] fall and winter. Money at the [illegible] customary at this season of the year [illegible] and [illegible] sufficient [illegible] outlook now promises an unusually [illegible] the [illegible] naturally [illegible] considerably [illegible] consequently using every precaution against [illegible] in an unnecessary or reckless manner. [illegible] paper running sixty days [illegible] is [illegible] somewhat sparingly, though [illegible] temporary [illegible] market [illegible].

The $[illegible] loan of the [illegible] railroad has been successfully placed in London and [illegible] Scott of the Pennsylvania railroad is reported to have completed [illegible] arrangements in London whereby this company will also be a drawer of foreign exchange. The supply of sterling exchange will receive a heavy addition by these operations.

English Wheat Crop.

The following estimate of the English crop is given by Thomas C. Scott, a recognized authority in grain statistics, in a letter to the London Times. He writes:

The variableness of the wheat crop generally this season leaves no one at liberty to dogmatize as to the probable aggregate yield but taking the best and worst crops on various farms in wide apart districts and striking an average and then assimilating these averages from districts ranging from 200 to 100 miles south, north east and west of London I have come to the following conclusions:

1 That we have not more than [illegible] acres under wheat in the United Kingdom being about 500,000 acres less than last year.

2 That the yield will be two bushels under an average crop or say 25 bushels an acre. This exceeds by six bushels an acre my estimate of last year's crop and would yield an aggregate product of 11,500,000 qrs. Deducting 1,000,000 qrs for seed required for home use 10,000,000 qrs remain to meet a consumption of 22,000,000 qrs. The deficit is 11,000,000 qrs more than I anticipated on the 31st of April last. Last year I estimated the aggregate product from a larger area at less and the foreign supply required at 11,000,000 qrs it has already reached 12,000,000 qrs and there are still sixteen days to run to complete the agricultural year.

This exceeds by 3,000,000 of qrs or £9,000,000 of money the average imports of the previous four years.

Fortunately the great wheat fields of Russia and America each with an area six times greater than our own are favorably reported on. The fine Australian wheat we are now receiving comes opportunely to our shores; and our own unexpectedly early harvest is likewise as great a boon to the country as a timely remittance to an individual when a bill is due. Had it been a fortnight or three weeks later as we expected, it is hard to say what would have been the price of bread, for it is well known that we have no wheat stock on hand either in rick yards or granaries and that all foreign wheat growing countries are pretty well cleared.

The main drawbacks to the wheat yield this year have been: 1 The want of drainage, necessitating the continuance of the ridge-and-furrow system, which always causes a large percentage of tail corn. 2 Defective ears from empty cells, caused by rust or maggot, and occurring, not as usual at the top or bottom of the heads, but in the center. These blanks, after examining many hundreds of heads I estimated at a loss of a bushel an acre throughout the whole wheat crop, which on 3,500,000 acres amounts to nearly half a million quarters and over a million (£2,000,000) of money. Thinness of plants on the ground, especially on the heavier soils and the absence of tillering.

Boston Wool Market.

The Boston Commercial Bulletin of the 4th inst reviews the Boston wool trade for the preceding week, as follows:

We have to note another week of activity in the wool trade, with larger sales to consumers than for several weeks previous. The large sales of foreign wool to go out of the market have probably had something to do with the increased sales of domestic, and yesterday and Thursday there was some excitement in the market. There is no very marked change in prices, though the market is very firm, and on very choice grades better prices are obtained. The stock of XXX and above is light and is controlled by a few houses, who hold these wools firmly. There is little improvement in good Ohio and Michigan fleeces, but dealers are really getting very little more money than last week. Stocks and [illegible] are heavy, and dealers seem content to [illegible] at present rates rather than check the [illegible] by advancing prices.

The sales of California wool have been very large, and full prices have been obtained. These wools seem to be attracting more than usual attention from manufacturers, and choice lots sell readily and at satisfactory prices, say about the same as last week.

Pulled wool has been in good demand and the sales are quite large. Stocks are only moderate and the manufacturers pick up desirable lots about as fast as they arrive.

The sales of unwashed wool continue large and prices are steady and without material change.

Combing and delaine wools have sold freely and prices are firm and about as last week. No sales of Canada are reported this week.

Foreign wool continues to sell freely for export and the transactions this week include an unusually large amount of sheep skins to go out of the country. Cape is steady, but held rather above the views of manufacturers, who are not willing to pay much above [illegible], while some holders are asking [illegible] and even more for choice lots. Australian is quiet but is held firmly.

The receipts for the week ending August 28th have been 14,001 bales domestic.

The sales of the week foot up 2,750,000 lbs domestic and 212,000 lbs foreign, and 850,000 lbs foreign sheep skins.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—The general aspect of our market is not materially changed, a desire being still manifested to secure large lots and we are informed that buyers have now under contract by far the largest portion of the crops on both sides of the river along the line of the railroads. A man who recently traveled through Washington, Yamhill counties informs us that there is now actually but a small quantity for sale in those counties and that he does not believe there is 16,000 bushels in the two, which is unsold. While we deem these estimates too low it is doubtless true that the aggregate of sales so far this season are greatly in excess of any former year for a corresponding period. Transactions are not numerous or large to-day and are made substantially on the quotations last given by us.

FLOUR—We noted a tendency to firmness in the market a few days ago which is well sustained quotations still standing at $6 @ 6 50 ⅌ bbl for best brands and from $5 to $6 for outside and good country brands.

OATS—Buyers are freely offering 45 cents per bushel for black and 50 cents for white sacks included.

FEED—The market is in limited supply and prices unchanged.

HAY—We note some increase in receipts, quotations are furnished as firm at $10@11 ⅌ ton for loose timothy and $12 50@13 for baled ditto.

POTATOES—Supply abundant at [illegible] cents ⅌ bushel for common to best.

ONIONS—The market is in better supply than last week. We quote old crop at [illegible] cents new at 2 [illegible].

APPLES—In neat boxes best varieties are worth [illegible] ⅌ box, common lots from wagons quotable at [illegible].

BACON—The tone of the market is improving on the dullness which prevailed during last spring and summer. Some predict an advance but as yet we are hardly warranted in changing the quotations last given.

LARD—There is a fair demand at an advance of [illegible] ⅌ lb for fresh Oregon.

BUTTER—The country merchants are sending forward considerable lots, and the market is over stocked with a sorry article while choice for table use is yet quick sale. Prices range from [illegible] cents per pound according to quality.

EGGS—Our market is quiet and prices steady at [illegible] cents per dozen. Receipts about equal to the local demand.

CHICKENS—We quote fat grown hens and roosters at $4@4 50 per dozen. Last spring's chickens $2 [illegible].

HIDES—There is no important change to note. Shipments for two or three weeks past have fallen off as have receipts. Lots without serious blemish are firm at [illegible] for green salt [illegible] for dry.

WOOL—Eastern market being more active our sympathizes in a measure. The prospect now is that prices for the fall clip will be rather better than last spring. For [illegible] lots quotation for [illegible] at 26 [illegible].

SMALL POX.

DOCTOR BORZFAC'S SMALL POX REMEDY, SAMUEL CORWIN Proprietor, can be procured at all the Drug Stores in this city at the present time. As this medicine is proving an inestimable boon to those afflicted with that disease, no person should neglect the present opportunity of providing themselves with this valuable antidote. Price ONE DOLLAR per bottle.

Portland, Oregon, Aug 22 1873.

MR SAMUEL CORWIN—Sir: In justice to yourself and for the benefit of those who may be afflicted with the small pox I am induced to give publicity to the following facts: About the 20th of July, 1873 I became very unwell having severe pain in my head, back and limbs, which continued to increase in severity for three or four days, a very high fever set in and I began to break out on my face, neck and body with what proved to be small pox. I procured of Dr Freeland, of the Central Drug store, a bottle of your small pox remedy. Notwithstanding the severity of the attack, I administered the medicine myself not in accordance with accompanying directions but in about double doses. In three days all pain and fever disappeared. My recovery was extremely rapid notwithstanding frequent exposures by moving about from place to place while in a high fever which is generally considered fatal in that disease, and it is my firm conviction that under the ordinary treatment for that disease I would not be living to-day. I took of the medicine about two and a half bottles more perhaps than was necessary not wishing to discontinue until a thorough cure was effected.
PETER BURK.

I know of my own knowledge that the foregoing statement is true in every particular.
[illegible] FREELAND.
